Shane drives monster truck on City Hall

In a last minute push to get Phillies outfielder Shane Victorino onto the National League All-Star team, Mayor Michael Nutter had the "Flyin' Hawaiian" over to City Hall Thursday. He won the final roster spot.

City bus runs over, kills man

FRANKFORD. A man killed after being run over by a SEPTA bus Friday was identified as Alfredo James, 36, of Bensalem.

Police said the bus was pulling into the Frankford Transportation Center around midnight when James ran up to the bus and banged on the door. The operator directed him away from the bus when James stumbled and fell under the wheels.

A SEPTA spokesman said the operator, who has been on the job for 17 years, is being held off from driving pending a drug test, which is standard.

Mayoral candidate: End teachers union

GOP challenger to Mayor Nutter's second term, Karen Brown, wants to 'rethink whole school system' ◐ Union leader 'taken aback' by proposal

Republican mayoral candidate Karen Brown wants to dismantle the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers and she took her "vision paper" about doing so to Washington, D.C., to talk with several U.S. representatives Wednesday.

The former Catholic- and charter-school teacher and "union girl" also said she wants to remove Superintendent Arlene Ackerman and get back to having an elected school board.

"I can't see how you can fix the schools without breaking the union. It prevents you from getting teachers back to teaching again," Brown said, railing against tenure in lieu of merit pay. "I'm not against the teachers. I'm against the teachers union. Our kids are suffering. We're losing our future. We need to rethink our whole school system."

▶ Karen Brown

"Mayor Nutter is more interested in looking for ways every entity can contribute to improving public education and the teachers union is certainly one of those." SIMMONS

PFT President Jerry Jordan was "taken aback" when told of Brown's "get back to teaching" comment. "What does she think they've been doing?" he asked. "Nine years of rising test scores are because they've been teaching.

"It's very clear that Karen Brown does not want the teachers to have a voice in educating children in this city. It's very disrespectful. I invite her to go into a school, spend some time there and see if she feels the same way."

Michael Nutter's campaign spokeswoman Sheila Simmons defended the city's teachers. "Our schools can be reformed without such drastic measures," she said. "Teachers are an integral part of any educational system, and their right to organize is not the source of all that is wrong with our schools."

Taking ideas to Congress

PHILADELPHIA. Brown said she met with four members of the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress: Mike Kelly (Erie), Lou Barletta (Hazelton), Tim Murphy (Pittsburgh) and Tom Marino (Tunkhannock).

She also asked U.S. Rep. (and former Eagle) Jon Runyan to help arrange a meeting with N.J. Gov. Chris Christie, who has battled with the state teachers' union there.

Damning memos read at Kelly trial

Evaluations of social worker on trial in girl's death allegedly reveal job oversights ● Kelly died in 2006

As the child-endangerment trial of Danieal Kelly's father and two social workers continued Thursday, a retired DHS supervisor testified that the worker assigned to the case faced numerous reprimands and suspensions on the job.

Danieal Kelly's father, Daniel, and two social workers, Mikal Kamuvaka and Dana Poindexter, are on trial for their alleged roles in the 14-year-old cerebral-palsy stricken girl's gruesome, DHS-altering death.

Reading from her evaluations of Poindexter, Donna Grubbs, who retired from DHS in 2006, said it's "obvious you care less and less about your responsibilities as a social worker." She then spoke about another case that Poindexter "put on a back burner," but when police responded, they "became nauseated when they entered the house."

▶ Danieal Kelly

When Poindexter received a 10-day suspension, a memo from then DHS Commissioner Alba Martinez concluded, "I hope this is the last time we have to remind you of these issues." It wasn't.

When DHS case worker Catherine Mondi fielded a hotline call about Danieal in 2004 — that she could be heard screaming at times and didn't receive necessary services — she deferred to Poindexter, who was already assigned. She would die two years later.

Daniel Kelly is expected to testify.

TOM FOREMAN
POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT FOR CNN

MEET THE TOWN TWITS

I've often said that Twitter, with its 140-character limit, is for people who find the more popular Facebook far too deep.

For my taste, Twitter is to news dissemination what a dirty limerick is to The Iliad. Still, for getting a short message across, it works like a sock full of pennies to the head: It's fast and efficient.

So I watched with interest as President Obama held his Twitter town hall this week. The premise and the promise were simple: Let people all across the land lob their questions directly at the chief executive in a live forum, and cut out all those pesky journalists in the middle. Fair enough.

Only that's not what happened. For all of their vaunted "crowd sourcing" and "direct democracy" talk, Internet types are quick to take on the trappings of (gasp!) the dreaded Mainstream Media as soon as the chips on the table start adding up — like, say, when the president of the United States comes to call.

CNN=POLITICS

Quoted

"Town hall meetings, once you reach the presidential level, are like professional wrestling."
TOM FOREMAN

So, predictably, the Twitter town hall included eight regional moderators to sift through the questions and to decide which ones spoke for the largest crowds; in short, to do precisely what the bloggers always whine about the MSM doing. That's how some 40,000 questions were boiled down to the 18 that were actually asked. Much to the consternation of the Twitter tribe, even that scant number included one question from House Speaker John Boehner, and one from a newspaper columnist.

The funny thing is, despite all that, I saw how this really could work. Put a politician into a chair with a live camera, open the spigot to the Internet, and simply let the questions flow. Keep everything onscreen, so participants can see which queries the pol answers, and which ones he skips.

But almost no one in big league politics really wants to see that happen. The risk of embarrassment, a wrong answer or a cyber-pie in the face is just too high. Town hall meetings, once you reach the presidential level, are like professional wrestling. Even if they look spontaneous, no matter who is hosting the event, the conversation will never stray far from the script in real life ... or online.

News Corp. on ropes: Murdoch shuts NOW

Fox News parent company exposed to negative press over UK hacking scandal ◐ Owner of media empire moves to nip PR nightmare in the bud

In a breathtaking response to a scandal engulfing his media empire, Rupert Murdoch moved on Thursday to close down the News of the World, Britain's biggest-selling Sunday newspaper.

As allegations mounted this week that its journalists had hacked the voicemails of thousands of people, from child murder victims to the families of Britain's war dead, the tabloid had hemorrhaged advertising and alienated millions of readers.

Yet no one, least of all the 168-year-old paper's staff, was prepared for the drama of a single sentence that will surely go down as one of the most startling turns in the 80-year-old Australian-born press baron's long and controversial career.

"News International today announces that this Sunday, 10 July 2011, will be the last issue of the News of the World," read the preamble to a statement from Murdoch's son James, who heads the British newspaper arm of News Corp.

Hailing a fine muckraking tradition at the paper, which his father bought in 1969, James Murdoch told its staff that the latest explosion of a long-running scandal over phone hacking by journalists had made the future of the title untenable:

"The good things the News of the World does ... have been sullied by behavior that was wrong."

There was no immediate response from members of Prime Minister David Cameron's government, which has found itself embarrassed by the avalanche of allegations this week after it gave its blessing in principle to News Corp.'s takeover bid for broadcaster BSkyB. REUTERS

The background

The main accusations are that journalists took advantage of limited security on cell-phone voicemail boxes to listen in to messages of people involved in major stories.

- Police have said a private detective working for the newspaper hacked into messages left on the phone of a murdered schoolgirl.
- Police have also been criticized over allegations officers took money for information.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

▶ The stats are only getting worse: Overall, Americans are increasing in weight.

Fat rising: Obesity up by 90 percent in many US states

Obesity rates climbed at least 90 percent in 17 states from 1995 to last year — gains that have a direct bearing on U.S. health spending, according to a report.

Jeff Levi, the study's author, emphasized that it will take years to get the obesity epidemic under control. "This is not a national diet that will be over in a couple of months," he said.

The report's authors called on U.S. lawmakers to refrain from cutting programs to fight the condition. Medicare and Medicaid each spend more than 20 percent of their budget to treat illnesses related to avoidable medical risks like obesity and smoking.

"We can't afford to ignore the impact obesity has on our health and corresponding health-care spending," Levi said.

A combination of fewer calories, healthier foods and more physical activity is needed to start cutting pounds, researchers report. Drastic solutions like weight-loss surgery and prescription drugs are costly, last-ditch efforts meant only for people already suffering complications from their weight — not a society-wide solution. BLOOMBERG

Winners, losers

The survey's authors dubbed a swath of 644 counties in 15 mostly Southern states the "diabetes belt," as reported in the Journal of Preventive Diseases.

- Since 1995, obesity rates have risen fastest in Oklahoma, Alabama and Tennessee — while Colorado, Connecticut and D.C. had the slowest increases.
- Mississippi is the fattest state in the union with an adult obesity rate of 34.4 percent. BLOOMBERG/REUTERS

Bottled water fails survey

NEW YORK. Don't drink the bottled water. That's the message that the non-profit organization Environmental Working Group is sending after its reviews of 173 brands of bottled water were, well, a little murky.

According to the EWG, more than half of the brands surveyed in 2010 actually flunked the transparency test, which looked at whether the location of their water source, the treatment methods and the tests to verify the water's purity were listed on the product's label or company website.

In total, EWG's survey shows that 18 percent of bottled water brands still fail to reveal their water's geographic source and 32 percent do not disclose treatment methods and purity testing methods. Additionally, researchers found that 13 percent publish "water quality" reports that lack any actual test results.

The EWG recommend that consumers stick to tap water. MAINSTREET.COM

It's always sunny with Charlie Day

The 'Horrible Bosses' star on playing a meek dental hygienist who does not want to be hit on by Jennifer Aniston It's a hard sell indeed Day offers some spoilers for Season 7 of 'It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia'

Charlie Day, who is mostly known for his illiterate, glue-sniffing character on FX's "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia," has been put in the unlikely position of explaining why being pursued for a sexual liaison by a character resembling Jennifer Aniston is unpleasant. It's not an easy job.

"Most men don't cheat on their wives. Not all, but close," he offers rather sheepishly. In the new comedy "Horrible Bosses," he plays a dental hygienist to Aniston's man-eating dentist. Entirely devoted to his fiancee, Day's character, Dale, is terrified by his boss's blackmailing seduction. As the logic of the film goes, he and his buddies — played by Jason Sudeikis and Jason Bateman — therefore decide to kill Dale's boss along with their own. Dark as it may seem, "Bosses," much like "Sunny," isn't afraid to cover controversial topics.

"I don't think anything is too taboo to make funny," says Day. "Murder is a terrible thing. But set against this backdrop, with these guys that have no business trying to commit a murder going about it, then it becomes a comedy. The things aren't inherently funny. It's how you tell the joke."

▶ "Horrible Bosses," starring Charlie Day, opens Friday.

That's where the overlap between "Horrible Bosses" and "It's Always Sunny" — for which Day is also a writer and producer — lies. He has just wrapped production on Season 7 of the sitcom, which depicts the depraved lives of a group of egocentric bottom-feeders. No topic — from abortion to cats wearing mittens — is too crooked or bizarre.

"Managing to fly under the radar enough so that we don't lose our street cred, but be a big enough hit that we're actually a very successful show, has been a really nice balance," says Day, who also offers up spoilers for the new season, premiering in September: "One of my favorite episodes is a 'Toddlers and Tiaras'-esque thing, a kiddie pageant episode, which is just ridiculous," Day says. "Frank has gotten involved in pageantry. He thinks it's grown women he's getting involved with but it happens to be kids — and he has to go through with it. It's another great season."

Q&A: Facial hair

Does having a beard make you funnier?

"Having a beard just makes me look older," Day says. "Sometimes when I shave it off I feel like I still look like I'm 15. So, yes and no. Mac [on "It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia"] grows his beard a little bit longer this season. He's definitely funnier, but I've seen some unfunny people with beards. I don't know that it makes people unfunny. I just know that there are plenty of people who grow beards who still remain completely humorless."

Rob McElhenney, aka Mac

Quoted

"I think they'd hit it off, because I think they are very similar. I think Dale could help Charlie learn how to read and Charlie could teach Dale all about the world of cats and inhalants."

▶ Kevin James stars alongside a cast of furry creatures — including this animatronic gorilla voiced by Nick Nolte — in "Zookeeper," opening Friday.

There's nothing wild about this 'Zookeeper'

If you like tame family entertainment, Kevin James has just what you're looking for in his latest caper

You can't blame a piece of crap that sells itself as a piece of crap. Kevin James wanted to make a family movie — one that would be stupendously inoffensive. He has managed to do that with talking animals in a way — amazingly — that isn't actually as boneheaded as the premise sounds. As a man passionate about his zookeeping job, James' character gets advice from his talking animals (voiced by the likes of Nick Nolte and Cher) on how to win back an ex. It's goofy, obvious, contrived and corny (there is a trip to T.G.I. Friday's with a dancing gorilla, after all), but the humor is silly enough to amuse kids without resorting to toilet humor or sleaze for the adults. With this box of chocolates, you know exactly what you're going to get — and that isn't necessarily a bad thing.

'Torchwood: Miracle Day'

DRAMA. It doesn't take long before people begin to realize Miracle Day — an event that causes humans to become immortal — is much more bleak than wondrous. A new take on the British sci-fi series, this import retains the series's action, wit and kick-ass hero, Captain Jack (John Barrowman), while adding newcomers Mekhi Phifer, Bill Pullman and Lauren Ambrose. Season premiere, Friday, 10 p.m., Starz

'Curb Your Enthusiasm'

COMEDY. Larry David continues to make enemies in Season 8, particularly when he finds himself in NYC. Big Apple, consider yourself warned. Season premiere, Sunday, 10 p.m., HBO

Yeah, these 'Bosses' are pretty bad

A plot to kill management seems implausible ◐ At least the dumb idea provides a few good laughs

JOHN P. JOHNSON

Movie studios know that while many people are unemployed right now, those of us who have jobs still feel pretty stuck in what we're doing. No one's happy. No one feels hopeful about the future. Ergo, a movie about three dim men who, suffering under the tyranny of terrible management, decide the only way to fix things is to kill their bosses. Should we feel insulted? Judging by the quality of this movie, maybe.

Director Seth Gordon has the best actors you could ask for in place. The three demeaned laborers — Jason Sudeikis, Jason Bateman and Charlie Day — do work well with what they've got. They gel as a group, even if the jokes themselves aren't that funny.

The biggest problem here lies in the implausibility of what they're doing. Would anyone really decide to kill a gorgeous boss (Jennifer Aniston) who is coming on to her subordinate (Day)? You can sense the screenwriters wrote and rewrote the script to try to make it seem like murder was the only answer. Along the way there are a few great laughs — especially with the presence of Jamie Foxx as Motherf—er Jones, a con artist who becomes the trio's counselor in all things homicidal. But in the end, the premise still feels dead on arrival.

When Pixar meets James Bond

John Lasseter's sequel to 'Cars' is a globe-trotting adventure ● The Pixar chief on picking out the models to serve as spies and villains ● Why this franchise is near and dear to him

"Cars 2" marks Pixar Animation's 12th film and a return to directing for John Lasseter, who previously helmed "Toy Story," "Toy Story 2," "A Bug's Life" and 2006's "Cars." The Pixar chief, Disney Animation boss and avid gear-head sat down to take us behind the scenes of his latest.

For the new British spy character, Finn McMissile (voiced by Michael Caine), you pretty much had to use an Aston Martin, didn't you?

Actually, it's an original car that was inspired by a bunch of British sports cars from that era. There's a number of different cars in there. We were inspired by the beautiful car designs from Italy, too, of that era — especially the Pininfarina Design Group that was doing stuff. And so we kind of mixed it all together and kind of created our own cool car.

And you use infamously awful cars as villains.

That was one of my favorite things, coming up with the idea of in a "Cars" spy movie, having the lemons of the world be the bad guys — oh, that was so much fun. Honestly, we had a big old long list of cars we wanted to have as the bad guys, but there were a lot of car companies that didn't want to have their cars represented as bad guys.

NED EHRBAR
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

Picking favorites

So after 25 years and 12 films, can you pick your favorite Pixar movie?

No, I can't pick a favorite. That's like kids of mine. But the "Cars" movies are very, very personal for me because my father was a parts manager at a Chevrolet dealership, and all of the kind of experiences that the characters do in the films, even "Cars 2" — not the spy part of it, but traveling around the world and feeling out of place and things like that — are very much like things I've experienced.

You can tell me if your dad was a spy.

No, he wasn't. My dad was just a simple parts manager at Jones Chevrolet in Whittier, Calif.

Fred Beans has over 500 unsold cars leftover from this spring, AND THEY MUST BE SOLD NOW.

For ONE DAY ONLY, Saturday, July 9th, Fred Beans Chevrolet of Limerick is hosting a Summer Sell-Down Super Sale, featuring up to $10,000 OFF MSRP† on new vehicles and up to 50% OFF original MSRP on pre-owned vehicles. This sale is going on at Fred Beans Chevrolet of Limerick.

"It's simple," said President Fred Beans. "We over forecasted our spring sales. We ordered too many cars. Now our lots are overcrowded, and we have to move these vehicles ASAP. Failure to do so will affect our entire year."

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first-time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

"Saturday, July 9th is our one chance to sell-off our summer inventory," said Mr. Beans. "That's why we're making it your one chance to drive a new car for less than ANYONE else will offer this year."

DJ Cassidy celebrates his 30th birthday in style

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

DJ Cassidy isn't one to ring in his birthday with a couple friends at a pub — the man has been going all out with fetes fit for a king since his 20th, and his 30th on Wednesday at the Intrepid Sea, Air and Space Museum in New York City was no different. Cassidy, clad head to toe in a canary yellow suit and slippers with the DJ Cassidy crest, took the stage to introduce the reunited New Edition as guests like Swizz Beatz ("Everything's good," he told us of his new baby with wife Alicia Keys) mingled and sipped Hennessey Black cocktails in honor of the drink's first anniversary. It was a wild night for sure — and we couldn't resist asking stars about their craziest birthdays.

▶ DJ Cassidy and Kirstie Alley on Wednesday night.

▶ DJ Cassidy:
"It would be the last one at the New York Public Library, where Rakim and Bobby Brown performed and Jay-Z and Nas were at one table rapping every line."

Quoted

"Oh, I don't wanna dress anybody. I wanna undress everybody."

FASHION DESIGNER PATRICIA FIELD, WHEN ASKED WHO SHE WANTS TO DRESS NEXT

"My most exciting birthday was probably my 26th birthday. I got surprised — I got taken away on a trip to Turks and Caicos with like 10 of my friends. [I] thought I was going to Miami. I arrived in Miami and all of sudden all my friends popped out, it was the most random thing."

▶ Jaslene Gonzalez, winner of "America's Next Top Model" Cycle 8:
"I just recently had a birthday party at Y Bar, one of my favorite clubs in Chicago. Literally I walked in and it felt like heaven — nothing but white balloons, white confetti on the floor, then they play my favorite mariachi singer on a flatscreen TV, and it was my favorite song with my photos and runway videos, so it was like Jaslene's heaven."

▶ Jonathan Cheban, "The Spin Crowd":
"My craziest birthday party was probably last year. It was the premiere of my show, it was on the night of my birthday."

But surely the best remark came from Kirstie Alley, who couldn't remember a) her own 30th birthday party and b) why she was even at the event in the first place. "Are you kidding me? I have no idea. Is it his 30th?" she asked us.

Man vs. Jake Gyllenhaal

Here's someone I wouldn't mind being stranded with on a barren landscape: Jake Gyllenhaal. Sadly, though, that honor goes to Bear Gryllis. Yes, the movie star and all-around hottie will appear on the season premiere of "Man vs. Wild." Tune in July 11 to the Discovery Channel to watch Gryllis and his new hiking buddy traverse the glaciers and icy waters of Iceland and, per a trailer of the show, eat a worm.

If that worm came from a tequila bottle and you replace "Iceland" with "Mexico," you'd have my idea of a perfect Jake Gyllenhaal date.

Smart to appear on ABC

Elizabeth Smart — who was abducted from her Salt Lake City, Utah, bedroom in 2002 — has signed a deal with ABC News to become a commentator on missing persons and child abduction cases, per ABC. The 23-year-old Smart could appear on-air, most likely "Good Morning America" and "Nightline," in just a few weeks.

Dirty mouth? Yes please

It looks like Justin Timberlake likes the raunchy girls.
"There's nothing better than a pretty girl with a nasty mouth. It's every guy's fantasy," the singer tells the August issue of Cosmopolitan. "I like a woman who doesn't necessarily care if other people like her. She is who she is and figures people can take it or leave it."

Gaga: Ticking time bomb

Investigative journalist Ian Halperin, who is currently working on a book about Lady Gaga, makes startling allegations about the singer to Star magazine, saying she's a "ticking time bomb" regarding her diet and drug use.
"Those who have worked with her on tour reported to me that Gaga barely ate for weeks at a time to fit into her costumes," said Halperin. "She is sick and obsessed with her weight. One friend told me that Gaga will stare at herself in the mirror for hours on end, analyzing and critiquing her body. It's an unhealthy obsession." And as for her drug use, Halperin states that, "From heroin to cocaine and ecstasy, her friends say that she has done every drug conceivable. You name it she has done it."

Patience makes the Soundgarden grow

It's been 20 years since the heyday of grunge, but Chris Cornell is ready to rock again with the band that put him on the map ◗ There is a lot less pressure on the band, but that means the new album may take a while

Chris Cornell has a practical approach to Soundgarden these days. He does what he does because he and his band like it, not because a record company says they have to. The singer, fresh off a solo tour, says he looks forward to the release that playing aggressive music with his old band gives him.

You've been doing a lot of solo touring. How different is the mind-set between those shows and Soundgarden shows?

Lately I've been doing what I call the "Songbook" tour, which is pretty much just me and an acoustic guitar, so it's about as opposite as you can get. ... In that way, you don't really have to strive for balance. One kind of takes care of the other. After touring around for a month and a half, doing that [acoustic tour], I was really looking forward to getting in the studio with Soundgarden and playing loud, aggressive rock music. And then after doing that for a while it will feel great to just sit alone and play an acoustic guitar. So in that way I think I'm pretty fortunate to be able to have such dramatic extremes.

The last time we spoke, you said this about Soundgarden: "To me, making a record makes more sense than doing a live show. And even that would be something that I don't think would make sense. It doesn't seem like anything like that would ever happen, so the idea to reform just to play live seems even more ludicrous to me." When did you depart from that way of thinking?

I guess once we were actually in a room, talking about doing different things to sort of service the legacy of Soundgarden. ... We didn't get back together to immediately get an album out because we want to go on tour and get paid. We've done it in a time that was comfortable and in a way that makes sense to us, where everyone's inspired and having fun, writing and recording new material at a pace that feels good with the concern that it's a great record that we want to put out. [There is] nothing else, no other concern at all.

Q&A: Getting laid back

Is the band proceeding with caution so you don't fall into the traps that caused tension and led to the breakup?

Well, I think the main one is avoiding concerns about scheduling. I suppose there was always a factor of record companies worrying about competition, other record labels and what they're releasing by what bands that would be in direct competition with our band. And that's concerned with a lot of different things — with touring, with radio airplay, with TV airplay and all the things that go along with it. And we're not really in that position anymore. We're just Soundgarden, and we're just in that stage of being a band that there isn't really competition. There isn't really another band that can rush in and take our place if we're not ready. And that's made everything pretty relaxed.

Smells like retro spirit

Nostalgia seems to operate on 20-year cycles. In the '80s there was a great big groovy '60s revival, and in the last decade, many musicians totally took their cues from the '80s. It's only fitting that the '90s are coming back now. Here are a few signs.

DENIS O'REGAN/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Dave Grohl told New Music Express last week that he played "Smells Like Teen Spirit" for the first time in 17 years when Nirvana bassist Krist Novoselic did a guest spot on the new Foo Fighters album. "Krist says, 'You wanna run through some oldies?' Me and Pat [Smear, who is now in Foo Fighters and was also in Nirvana] look at each other. I mean, that's something I've never considered before. I was like 'OK,'" Grohl told NME. He said it was like "a ghost."

▶ Pearl Jam headline their own festival on Labor Day weekend to celebrate their 20 years together as a band.

▶ Beady Eye is Oasis, minus Noel Gallagher. Though they aren't resting on laurels by just playing Oasis hits in concert, they probably wouldn't pack so many people into their shows if it wasn't at least a possibility that they'd bust into "Wonderwall."

▶ Godsmack, who became popular in the late '90s, is a headliner of this year's Rockstar Energy Mayhem Festival. Singer Sully Erna says he thinks that the rock of the '90s is back for the same reason it became popular in the first place: "If history has taught us anything, it's that rock 'n' roll always comes back in one form or another," he says.

▶ 311 is touring with Sublime with Rome. It's Sublime's drummer and bassist with a new frontman who is a big dude like the late Bradley Nowell. To hear him sing "Wrong Way," you might swear it's 1996 again.

around samples borrowed from commercial radio hits — from Taylor Swift to U2.

"A lot of people out there are using top-40 samples. But the thing that differentiates me, I think, is that most people do it ironically. There's a sort of disdain for what's happening on top-40 radio. But I just really like that music," says Altman. "I'm trying to take pop songs and turn them inside-out — into something abstract."

But Camera Phone is a literary experiment as well. After all, Altman will spend the next four years of his life studying Donne, Milton and Shakespeare. His lyrics attempt to describe the emotional numbing and painful isolation that sometimes coincides with adulthood — all set to sugarcoated samples.

"One of the things I'm thinking through in my own life is the experience of being less than the person you thought you would be, which, I admit, is a profoundly unsexy thing to sing about in a rock song," he explains. "Rock music is usually about wish fulfillment. It creates desires in the listener. I'm trying to write about the opposite side."

Hear this

Both Camera Phone releases — "Fat Usher" and "Red Stag (for James)" — are currently available for free download by Cave Chorus Records, an international collective of electronica musicians (www.cavechorusrecords.co.uk).

If you go

Altman will begin to experiment with how to present this self-confessed "headphone music" on Sunday, when he celebrates his latest release, "Fat Usher," with a rare live performance.

The Sands Hotel

If Atlantic City is too far off your radar, the new Sands Hotel at the Sands Resort Casino Bethlehem might be perfect for your next long weekend. Situated about an hour drive from Philly, Sands is located on the property of the former Bethlehem Steel Factory, and much of the architecture is left intact for visitors to tour. The 10-story, 300-room building was given a "stylized, industrial look," according to Bob DeSalvio, president of the Sands Casino Resort Bethlehem — and photos of former steel workers adorn the walls. Guests have seven dining options to choose from, including Emeril Lagasse's first-ever Italian restaurant, Emeril's Italian Kitchen, which serves up delicious dishes such as burrata mozzarella salad, housemade meatballs with ricotta and polenta and vanilla bean panna cotta.

We've made her a star!

Why is it that everyone is fixated on Casey Anthony? People don't realize, but by everyone continuously commenting about her we have made her a national celebrity! So now, no matter what happens, she has been sensationalized so much she is a damn hero to some sick people cause she beat the system!

JEAN HAYWOOD, VIA E-MAIL

Let's look at the rich first

Before the president commits to cutting Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid, why not entertain the possibility of cutting the salaries of those on Capitol Hill as well as taking 25 percent of their "well earned" pensions? Maybe Mr. Boehner should try JCPenney for his suits and ties. It is always the working person who pays the price for the stupidity of those elected to do the right thing for the people. Hold Wall Street accountable and force the big oil companies to pay their fair share! If we can fund wars in three different countries and give Pakistan millions, we, the people, whose taxes pay for all of this garbage, deserve better.

Gay marriage: Hate and love

RE: "DO, DON'T LET FREEDOM RING": Perhaps Mr. Smith could explain how the lives of gay and lesbian couples are so different from "the mainstream"? They go to work, pay taxes and eat their meals like the rest of us. What they do in the privacy of the bedroom is no more our business than are the private lives of blacks, Hispanics or people with the surname "Smith."

JOSEPH CONNELL, VIA E-MAIL

Fifty years ago, a group of people thought that a black person having sex with a white person was not natural.

ALYSSA CONAWAY, VIA E-MAIL

Robert Smith says gay marriage has nothing to do with rights. He would do well to read up on the concept of the tyranny of the majority. The NRA as an example has a membership of less than 1.5 percent, yet they are accepted into society.

BRIAN BECK, VIA E-MAIL

Legalizing "gay marriage" represents a serious social disease which will surely leads to the destruction of the civilization.

TAKAHIRO HIROI, VIA E-MAIL

You wanna be mean on gays, it's your right, I guess, but let's look at the straight world for a little bit: That is where 99.9 percent of the unspeakable cruelty against children takes place.

SUZY SANDOR, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. If you get involved in some sort of friendly competition with friends, make sure that you don't take the game too seriously — and be willing to play whatever role is needed.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Unless you schedule your time well, by the end of the day you might find too many duties left undone. Make a good game plan and religiously stick to it.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Try to use the same discretion in your social and commercial situations that you do in matters that are important to your security. Your instincts will help you do and say all the right things.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. It isn't that you won't know the right course of action to follow, it's rather that you'll want to do something that you know you shouldn't. Don't trip over your own stubbornness.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. When you get the chance, be sure to reciprocate to pals who have gone out of their way to help. A failure to do so when they know you had the opportunity will leave a bad impression.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Regardless of how badly you might like to do something for a friend, if you're not sure that you can, it is better to let him or her know that up front rather than disappoint your pal later on.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. You'll get more accomplished and like yourself much better if you do what needs doing without being asked or told. Be in charge of yourself rather than having others boss you.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. It's fine and dandy that you know how to take charge and give orders, but before others will follow your lead, you must first show them that you're willing to do what you ask of them.

It's a convincing closing argument for Bastardo

Hard-throwing Dominican thriving in closer's role for Phillies ◗ Could he be the guy next season? ◗ Reliever is perfect in five save chances ◗ Boasts 0.87 ERA, 0.81 WHIP this season

When Antonio Bastardo came up in 2009, fans could argue that the hard-throwing Dominican possessed the best surname in baseball. Now, the Phillies' faithful can make a case for Bastardo as the best reliever in baseball.

Bastardo, who recently became the team's fourth closer of the season, has posted ridiculous numbers halfway through the season. He has a 0.87 ERA and has given up just 11 hits in 31 innings. He has struck out 35 and walked just 14 batters, with a crazy 0.81 WHIP and five saves in five chances.

The numbers are staggering, even when comparing Bastardo to Mariano Rivera's finest work. Sure, it's a small sample set — but look at how much Bastardo has improved since he arrived in 2009. He posted a 2-3 record with a 6.46 ERA as a starter. He was moved to the bullpen in 2010 and he lowered his ERA to 4.34.

The main difference for Bastardo is that he's not just a fastball pitcher anymore. His slider has been very good this season and his numbers are off the chart.

Quoted

"It's been fun coming in during the ninth. But it's good whenever I come in, as long as I help the team win." BASTARDO

14 Walks given up by Bastardo in 31 innings this season. His WHIP (0.81) is the fourth-best among relievers with at least 28 innings.

"I've just tried to get better," Bastardo said. "I just want to be the best I can be. I had to make improvements in my game."

Bastardo has pitched so well that he is the trusted closer.

"I feel good about that because they gave me a chance to close the game and I've done it," Bastardo said. "I want to keep doing it or whatever my job is here. I come in and I know I have to get three outs no matter what inning it is."

▶ Bastardo is 5-for-5 on save chances this season.

Future stopper?

Could this be Bastardo's audition for the closer's job next season? It sure looks that way, with other top guys coming off the books.

- Brad Lidge The current ninth-inning guy (we think, right?) has a club option for $12.5M in 2012. Considering he's yet to pitch this season — and has fought major injury after major injury since '08 — he's as good as gone.
- Ryan Madson The free-agent-to-be has also struggled with injuries and performance. But with 15 saves in 16 chances this season, a club will throw closer's money at him.
- Jose Contreras Thrived in closer's role early in the year, but injuries caught up with him — and he'll be 40 next year. Best-case scenario? He'd be used in a two-man save rotation.

Nets guard Deron Williams plans to play in Turkey, if the NBA lockout still isn't lifted in the fall.

Williams would sign a one-year deal worth $5 million, according to ESPN. He would play for the same team Allen Iverson suited up for in Turkey, Besiktas.

▶ Simmonds' contract is extended for two years.

Flyers sign Simmonds

The Flyers signed Wayne Simmonds to a two-year contract extension Thursday, according to GM Paul Holmgren. The deal is worth a reported $1.75 million per season.

The 22-year-old right wing was acquired from Los Angeles — along with center Brayden Schenn and a second-round pick — in the Mike Richards' deal.

In 80 games last season, he recorded 14 goals and 16 assists. Simmonds was a second-round pick in 2007.

The Flyers continue their Prospect Camp this weekend in Voorhees, N.J.

Close?

The NFL lockout reached its 114th day Thursday. The upcoming schedule is:

Hall of Fame Game
The first preseason game, in Canton, Ohio, is set for Aug. 7. A recent report said the event is still on the schedule, without delay.

Training camps
The Bears and Rams are set to begin July 22, with the rest a week later. The Eagles go on July 28.

Roster sizes
To accommodate for rust issues, the NFL is allowing teams to expand camp rosters from 80 to 90 players.

NFL legend Mackey passes

Pro Football Hall of Famer John Mackey died Wednesday. He was 69.

Mackey, who played for the Colts and Chargers, was credited with redefining the tight end position. He was just the second at that position to be enshrined in Canton.

NFL commish Roger Goodell hailed Mackey as "a courageous advocate for his fellow NFL players."

Meanwhile, there appears to be an increased push to end the current NFL lockout. Negotiations will spill into early next week to achieve a "done deal," according to ESPN. METRO

Collins walking away from NFL

Penn State product retires after 16 seasons • Fifth overall pick in 1995 draft • Torched Eagles last year

Eagles fans know Kerry Collins all too well. Now, they no longer have to worry about him.

After 16 seasons, the 38-year-old quarterback announced his retirement from the NFL Thursday. Collins was the fifth pick in the 1995 draft out of Penn State. He played for the Panthers, Saints, Giants, Raiders and Titans.

"The past several months have brought on much introspection, and I have decided that while my desire to compete on Sundays is still and always will be there, my willingness to commit to the preparation necessary to play another season has waned to a level that I feel is no longer adequate to meet the demands of the position," Collins said in a statement.

Career TD passes for Collins in 16 NFL seasons, which ranks 29th all-time. Only 10 other players have thrown for more yards than his 40,441.

Collins played in 10 games last season for Carolina, including a 37-19 win over the Eagles, where he threw for 276 yards and three touchdowns. In 12 career games against the Eagles, Collins threw for 2,842 yards with 12 TDs. METRO
